

Visiting Nagasaki

August 3-7, 2018 Kohoku Sakura, Tokyo

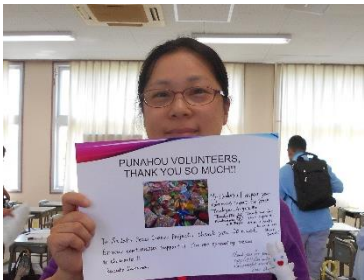

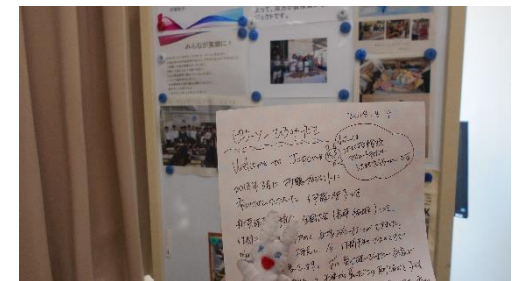

Ms.Ito took me to Nagasaki in August. She joined the teachers' seminar for English education. She was so happy to meet Ms.Sakuma at last! Ms.Sakuma and Ms.Peterson have been making great efforts with Origami cranes project. Do you remember that we studied about Sadako story and joined the project in this March? We made over 100 paper cranes and sent them to Arizona Memorial, Hawaii. Those cranes were given to the visitors from all over the world by the students of Punahou School in Honolulu. Ms.Ito and I realized the origami project surely connects our hearts for peace together. While we're making origami cranes, we think about peace and imagine the person who will get those cranes in the future. I wish that this program will be continued with the heart of friendship.

I was listening to Ms.Yoshioka giving the speech.

Ms.Sakuma shows us about the great volunteers from Punahou School & the precious story from Sadako to Ms.Peterson.

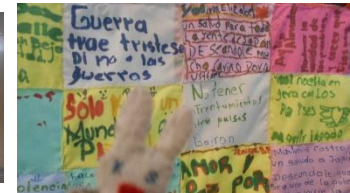

Peace Park

On August 9th,1945, the atomic bomb was dropped and destroyed many lives. We need to learn from the history.

I wrote a message to Punahou School.

At the Nagasaki Atomic Bomb Museum, I saw a lot of Origami cranes and messages from all over the world wishing for peace.
